Panel: "When the Tax Man Cometh... To Your Local Church, School, or Hospital: An Exploration of Recent Trends for Property Tax Exemptions"

When: March 15, 2024 from 9:00 – 9:45 AM

Overview: Exemptions play an important role in property tax regimes. Many are longstanding and have political, social, economic or other reasons for their existence. In a number of jurisdictions there have been moves to strip away at exemptions to allow for a larger tax base and increase income to municipalities, but it comes at a cost. Practitioners should be aware of the schemes that are being applied to chip away at exemptions and should be aware of the key methods for litigation an exemption cased. Changes that are occurring in other states may find their way into your jurisdiction and this sessions will provide essential information about developments in exemptions.
