

Split Take on NJ ‘Fake’ Sale Case Disrupts Biz-Friendly Pattern

In the News

04.25.2024

In the Law360 article, “Split Take on NJ ‘Fake’ Sale Case Disrupts Biz-Friendly Pattern,” partner Mark Oberstaedt provides his thoughts on a New Jersey Supreme Court decision on a class action case rejecting “fake discounts” as a source of consumer fraud. The decision was a boon for the class action defense bar, but the takes of three dissenting judges and the Attorney General show that the state’s largely business-friendly jurisprudence on what qualifies as an ascertainable loss isn’t quite settled.

Read the article here for all of Mark’s comments and insight.

Related People

Mark J. Oberstaedt

Partner

✉ moberstaedt@archerlaw.com

☎ 856.354.3072