Overview

Jiyoung represents a wide range of clients in a variety of corporate matters, including entity formation and dissolution, corporate governance, mergers and acquisitions, financing and commercial transactions. She assists clients in the preparation, review and negotiation of contracts, including corporate governance documents, such as bylaws, operating agreements, shareholder agreements and resolutions/consents, as well as the preparation of master services agreements, non-disclosure agreements and licensing agreements, among others.

A results-oriented attorney, Jiyoung decided to practice law due to her own personal struggles with immigration law. For over 15 years, she encountered and overcame many hardships related to obtaining the needed visas to study and work legally in the U.S. until finally earning her green card. It was working with her immigration attorney where she realized the impact an attorney can have on their clients' lives and she wanted to be someone who provides legal access to those in need.

Clients enjoy working with Jiyoung and appreciate her responsiveness, prompt communications, and tireless work ethic. Her goal is to be a trusted adviser for her clients who understands their business and is committed to their growth.

Jiyoung served as a judicial extern for the Honorable Jessica S. Allen of the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey. While in law school, Jiyoung served as the Business and Publication Editor of Volume 54 of the Seton Hall Law Review. She was also a summer associate at Archer. Jiyoung earned both her Master of Arts degree and Bachelor of Journalism degree from the University of Missouri School of Journalism. The Missouri School of Journalism is known as the first and finest journalism school in the world.
